INTERNATIONAL STUDENT CONFERENCE ON GLOBAL CITIZENSHIP

2017 International Student Conference on Global Citizenship

"Water, Food and Energy Nexus"

Striving for a better future

18-26 January 2017

Description of the Topic (FAO, 2014)

Water, energy and food are essential for human well-being, poverty reduction and sustainable development. Global projections indicate that demand for freshwater, energy and food will increase significantly over the next decades under the pressure of population growth and mobility, economic development, international trade, urbanization, diversifying diets, cultural and technological changes, and climate change (Hoff 2011). Agriculture accounts for 70 percent of total global freshwater withdrawals, making it the largest user of water. Water is used for agricultural production, forestry and fishery, along the entire agri-food supply chain, and it is used to produce or transport energy in different forms (FAO 2011a).

At the same time, the food production and supply chain consumes about 30 percent of total energy consumed globally (FAO 2011b). Energy is required to produce, transport and distribute food as well as to extract, pump, lift, collect, transport and treat water. Cities, industry and other users, too, claim increasingly more water, energy and land resources, and at the same time, face problems of environmental degradation and in some cases, resources scarcity.

This conference is dedicated to increase global awareness regarding the importance of the complex and dynamic interrelationships between water, energy and food, so that we can use and manage our limited resources sustainably.
